

eScienceInfo – Terms and Conditions

User Rights:

- You can access and use the website for lawful personal, educational, or professional purposes.
- You retain ownership of your submitted content but grant eScienceInfo permission to display or use it on the site.
- Your personal information is protected under our Privacy Policy and will not be sold or rented.
- Scientists who opt in to receive third-party marketing material: we will not sell your information, but we may use it to send relevant scientific content or research-related offers.
- You may contact eScienceInfo for clarification, complaints, or to update your information.
- You have the right to discontinue using the site at any time.

User Obligations:

- Use the site responsibly and legally—no unlawful, defamatory, or harmful content.
- Do not copy, distribute, or reuse any content without written permission.
- Keep login credentials private; you are responsible for activities under your account.
- Do not hack, disrupt, or overload the website or its systems.
- Respect the intellectual property rights of eScienceInfo and contributors.
- Accept that site information is provided “as is,” without warranties or guaranteed accuracy.
- Acknowledge that eScienceInfo may change or remove content or services anytime.
- Continued use after updates means acceptance of the revised Terms.

Note: All use of this website is subject to the full Terms & Conditions available on the eScienceInfo website.